Introduction

We have only undertaken to give in this little book the descendants of Daniel J. Yoder (No. 1). This we did with the aid of relatives, giving their family record and helping us get the record of those who for one reason or other did not answer so we are sorry a few may not be so complete, as we would have liked to make it: So we done the best possible we could.

We hope the kind readers will bear with us and overlook our shortcomings and mistakes; as this is not so easily done that there will not be mistakes in one way or other. Those who have made books like these can tell that too. Trusting that this little volume, although not perfect, may be useful and interesting to our readers, as a word of this kind will often settle a dispute, rather than raise one. So we deeply thank you one and all for your cooperation in getting this book thus far.

A BRIEF HISTORY

Daniel J. Yoder (No. 1) of this book was a son of Joni and Catherine Yoder. Joni had 2 wives. He had one boy from the first wife by the name of Gabriel, who died in Miami County, Indiana. Joni moved to Indiana from Holmes County, Ohio, but we have no date. Lived on a number of farms. He died on the farm northeast of Honeyville, on what is known as the old Daniel Yoder farm.

1818605

Joni died Sept. 30, 1886; age 76 years, 10 months, 2 days.

Catherine, wife of Joni, died Nov. 1, 1891; age 70 years, 3 months, 28 days. Their graves are found the first graves inside the east gate on the east side of the Yoder Corner Cemetery.

Daniel (No. 1) built the buildings where Jacob H. Mast now lives and lived there a couple of years, then moved up on the farm where they both died where Tobe Frye now lives.
